Do you have old sportsbook accounts that you can't access anymore? Maybe you forgot your password, or maybe the sportsbook has closed down. Whatever the reason, you may be wondering if there's any way to get your money out of those accounts.

The good news is that there are a few things you can do to try to get your money back.

1. Contact the sportsbook

The first step is to try to contact the sportsbook directly. You can usually find the contact information for the sportsbook on their website. If you can't find the contact information, you can try searching for it online.

When you contact the sportsbook, be sure to provide them with as much information as possible about your account, such as your username, password, and the last time you logged in. The sportsbook may be able to help you reset your password or access your account.

2. File a complaint with the gaming commission

If you're unable to contact the sportsbook directly, you can try filing a complaint with the gaming commission in your state or country. The gaming commission can investigate the sportsbook and help you get your money back.

To file a complaint with the gaming commission, you will need to provide them with the following information:

- Your name and contact information
- The name of the sportsbook
- The amount of money you are owed
- Any documentation you have to support your claim

3. Hire a lawyer

If you're unable to get your money back from the sportsbook or the gaming commission, you may want to consider hiring a lawyer. A lawyer can help you file a lawsuit against the sportsbook and represent you in court.

Hiring a lawyer can be expensive, so you should only consider this option if you have a large amount of money owed to you.

Getting your money out of an old sportsbook account can be a challenge, but it is possible. By following the tips in this article, you can increase your chances of getting your money back.
