The book is written by a team of leading experts on EU-Georgia relations, and it draws on the latest research and analysis.

What are the key findings of the book?

The book finds that the EU-Georgia relationship has deepened significantly in recent years. This is due to a number of factors, including Georgia's commitment to democratic reforms, its strong economic growth, and its strategic location at the crossroads of Europe and Asia.

The book also finds that the EU is Georgia's most important partner. The EU is Georgia's largest trading partner, and it provides significant financial assistance to the country. The EU is also a key supporter of Georgia's democratic development and its efforts to join the EU.

Why is the EU-Georgia relationship important?

The EU-Georgia relationship is important for a number of reasons. First, it is a key element of the EU's Eastern Partnership policy. The Eastern Partnership is a framework for cooperation between the EU and six countries in Eastern Europe and the South Caucasus: Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Moldova, and Ukraine.

Second, the EU-Georgia relationship is important for the stability and security of the South Caucasus region. Georgia is a key player in the region, and its stability is essential for the stability of the entire region.

Third, the EU-Georgia relationship is important for the development of democracy and human rights in Georgia. The EU is a strong supporter of Georgia's democratic development, and it provides significant assistance to the country in this area.

How can the EU-Georgia relationship be further deepened?

There are a number of ways to further deepen the EU-Georgia relationship. These include:

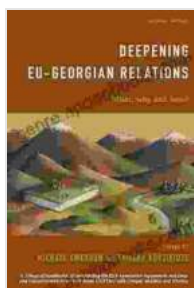

- Increasing trade and investment between the EU and Georgia
- Providing more financial assistance to Georgia
- Supporting Georgia's democratic development
- Enhancing security cooperation between the EU and Georgia

The EU-Georgia relationship is a complex and multifaceted one. It is rooted in history, shared values, and a common desire for a stable and prosperous Europe. In recent years, the relationship has deepened significantly, with Georgia becoming increasingly integrated into the EU's political, economic, and security structures. The EU is Georgia's most important partner, and it is committed to further deepening the relationship in the years to come.
