At the heart of the novel lies Evelyn Caldwell, a talented writer whose life is irrevocably intertwined with the printed word. When her beloved husband, Leo, is diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease, Evelyn finds solace in writing a memoir about their extraordinary journey together.

As Evelyn delves into the memories of their past, she encounters a cast of unforgettable characters who shape her journey. There's Miriam, her estranged sister, who holds secrets that threaten to unravel Evelyn's carefully crafted existence. And there's William, a young editor who becomes both her confidant and inspiration.

Through Evelyn's poignant reflections, McCausland explores the complexities of relationships, the fragility of memory, and the transformative nature of language. In the face of adversity, Evelyn discovers the true meaning of love and the indomitable power of words to heal and connect.
