

Snow on a Hot Stove: Zen Poems by Master Dogen

An to Master Dogen

Master Dogen (1200-1253) was a Japanese Zen master who is considered one of the most important figures in the history of Zen Buddhism. He was the founder of the Soto school of Zen, which is one of the largest Zen schools in the world today. Dogen's teachings are based on the idea that all beings are inherently enlightened, and that the goal of Zen practice is to realize this enlightenment. He believed that Zen meditation is the best way to achieve this realization, and he developed a system of meditation that is still used by Zen practitioners today.

Snow on a Hot Stove

Snow on a Hot Stove is a collection of 100 poems that were written by Master Dogen. These poems explore the nature of reality, the self, and the path to enlightenment. They are written in a simple and direct style, but they are full of wisdom and insight. They offer a unique perspective on the human condition and the search for meaning in life.

The poems in Snow on a Hot Stove are divided into four sections: "The Nature of Reality," "The Self," "The Path to Enlightenment," and "The World." Each section contains poems that explore a different aspect of the Zen experience. The poems in "The Nature of Reality" explore the nature of reality and the universe. The poems in "The Self" explore the nature of the self and the ego. The poems in "The Path to Enlightenment" explore the path to enlightenment and the different stages of Zen practice. The poems in "The World" explore the world around us and our place in it.

Snow on a Hot Stove is a profound and insightful collection of poems that offer a unique perspective on the human condition and the search for meaning in life. These poems are a valuable resource for anyone who is interested in Zen Buddhism or meditation. They are also a beautiful and moving work of art that can be enjoyed by anyone.

Here are a few examples of the poems from Snow on a Hot Stove:

The Nature of Reality

The world is a dream, A shadow, a reflection. All things are interconnected,
Like the dewdrops on a lotus leaf.

The Self

The self is an illusion, A mirage in the desert. There is no permanent self,
Only the ever-changing flow of experience.

The Path to Enlightenment

The path to enlightenment is not easy, But it is worth the journey. It is a path of self-discovery, Of letting go and becoming one with the universe.

The World

The world is a beautiful place, Full of wonder and mystery. It is a place to be cherished, And to be explored with an open heart.

Snow on a Hot Stove is a beautiful and moving collection of poems that offer a unique perspective on the human condition and the search for meaning in life. These poems are a valuable resource for anyone who is interested in Zen Buddhism or meditation. They are also a beautiful and moving work of art that can be enjoyed by anyone.
